CD radioactive alert draws 70 volunteers

By RICH ADAMS
The Hancock County Civil Defense Council sponsored an eight-hour course on radioactive material monitoring Thursday and Friday attended by some 70 volunteers, including public officials and heads of local police and fire departments.

Upon completion of the course, those attending were certified as radioactive materials monitors, according to Robert Boudin, Hancock County Civil Defense director.

In addition, Boudin said he plans to simulate an airplane crash in Hancock County in September, an exercise which will involve Hancock General Hospital and senior citizen volunteers.

The radioactivity course was taught by Gary Hall and Dale Yelberton of Mississippi State Civil Defense in Jackson.

Hall is supply officer and chief technician at the Jackson Civil Defense office and Yelberton is maintenance and calibrating facility supervisor.

"We'll receive one radioactivity monitoring device from the state for every three people who attend this course," stated Boudin. "I'd like to see a monitoring device in every fire department, police and sheriff's car and ambulance in the county," he continued.

"We are in constant danger of radioactive exposure with trucks, planes and trains carrying radioactive materials," he added.

"Emergency services are usually the first on the scene of a major accident, and these monitoring devices could come in very handy," Boudin said.

The County Civil Defense, and the Hancock General Hospital are going to team up in September to stage a simulated airplane crash, Boudin explained.

The plane will reportedly carry radioactive materials and Hancock Senior Citizens will portray 'casualties'.

"A person cannot see or smell the radioactive materials which makes them very hard to identify," said Boudin.

"The chances of a radioactive spill are very high with airplanes and trains daily transporting those materials," he added.

Hancock population soars

Industry growth continues, unemployment rate drops

By EDGAR PEREZ
The Hancock County Port and Harbor Commission and the South Mississippi Planning and Development District have released statistics showing Hancock County's unemployment rate to be one of the lowest in the state with only some 400 persons out of work.

"Hancock County is the fastest growing county in Mississippi in terms of population," said Wilson W. Webre, Port and Harbor director.

Webre told a commission meeting Thursday night that on a tour of the county last week "I saw more slabs being laid than I've ever seen before," in reference to new housing starts in Hancock.

"We hear a lot of complaints about our problems, and those complaints are justified since we are experiencing growing pains," Webre said.

"We hear considerable talk about sewer lines and potholes, but those potholes are caused by a lot of fast moving traffic on its way to the bank," the county's industrial development official quipped.

In a report to the commission on employment statistics at Port Bienville and Stennis Field, Webre said industries at those two developments currently are providing a total of 359 jobs with a combined weekly payroll of $74,048.

"That translates into a yearly payroll of $3,850,496, and that means a lot of family households, bank accounts, and general business in the county," Webre noted.

Marine Concrete Structures at Port Bienville remains the county's largest industrial park employer with some 154 workers drawing a weekly payroll of $32,000, Webre's report indicates.

The payroll at Easterly Yachts, the Halter Marine facility at Port Bienville, is up to include 56 workers earning $8,800 weekly, Webre reported.

Third largest employer at the East Pearl River industrial park is the recently opened Bergeron Industries with a total of 42 workers who are paid $7,692 weekly.

Hancock County employment statistics developed by the South Mississippi Planning and Development District and released by Webre at Thursday's meeting show an unemployment rate here of 5.4 percent for May, 1978.

That figure is some 1.1 percentage points below the May unemployment rate in the tri-county area of Hancock-Harrison-Stone reported in a companion article on the Echo front page today.

SMPDD's May unemployment rate in Hancock County compares to 9.9 percent unemployed here in May of last year, a 4.5 percent drop.

Unemployment in Mississippi for May this year is reported at 6.9 percent and in the United States at 6.1 percent, according to SMPDD.

The total civilian labor force in Hancock in May was 7,380 with 6,980 of those holding jobs, SMPDD reports.

The current unemployment rate in Harrison County is 6.6 percent, up one percent from the same period last year.

The lowest unemployment rate in South Mississippi, according to SMPDD, is in Lamar County where only some 300 persons are listed as unemployed

Tri-county jobless rate brighter than last year

The unemployment rate on the Mississippi Gulf Coast dropped a significant 1.1 percent in May, 1978, compared to the same month last year even though the total civilian labor force in the area increased by some 2,280.

In the three-county Hancock-Harrison-Stone area, the Mississippi State Employment Service reports an unemployment rate of 6.5 percent for May, 1978, compared to 7.6 percent for May, 1977.

In that month last year, 4,500 people in the area were unemployed, while in May of this year that figure dropped to 4,000, the service reported.

The civilian labor force showed an increase of 2,280, rising from 58,970 in May last year to 61,250 this May, the report added.

The May, 1978, rate of unemployment remained essentially unchanged over the previous month's reported rate of 6.5 percent unemployed, yet the number of residents working increased 200.

Total employment in May, 1978, was estimated to be 2,800 more than the total for the same month last year.

Some 720 additional factory jobs were occupied in May, 1978, compared with the same month in 1977, with expansions occurring in existing industry and new manufacturers locating in this area, the report stated.

The greatest change among the non-manufacturing groups was in the construction industry, which was up 1,350 in May, 1978, as compared to May, 1977.

The service noted a shortage in certain construction type skills.

Employment totals computed for May of this year at place of work were 810 above the April, 1978, estimate and 3,170 above the estimate for May, 1977, the report stated.

Little change was noted in factory employment from April to May of this year, leaving the majority of the gain occurring in the nonmanufacturing sector. Gains since May 1977 occurred in almost all major groups.

BaySide Park youth implicated in rape

A 22-year-old Bayside Park man was arrested in Waveland Thursday and charged with rape, the Hancock County Sheriff's Department reported.

Fritz J. Garcia Jr., 22, was charged with aggravated rape after he allegedly entered the home of a 19-year-old Bayside Park woman, drew a knife and gun, and raped her, Chief Deputy Ronnie Peterson reported.

Garcia was apprehended by Waveland Police Officer Dennis Tarravouille on Nicholson Avenue in Waveland two hours after the alleged incident took place.

Garcia is presently being held in the Hancock County jail without bail.

The sheriff's office reported Friday District Attorney Albert Necaise may take the case directly before the current session of the Hancock County Grand Jury.

Otherwise, a preliminary hearing for Garcia has been set for Wednesday before Justice Court Judge Lee Klein.

The rape victim was treated and released at Hancock General Hospital, Peterson reported.

Investigating officers in the case are Peterson and Deputies Delbert Seay and Alvin Ladner.

Grant insures kindergarten class in Pass Christian schools

The Pass Christian School District has received notification from the State Department of Education of a $20,000 grant to the district to continue operation of the experimental kindergarten program.

This will be the third year of the Title IV Program.

During the 1977-78 school term the district, operating under a $20,000 grant, conducted a program for twenty (20) kindergarten students from within the school district. Evaluation results indicates that the program was extremely successful, according to Superintendent Leroy Lizana.

The new grant will allow program operations during the 1978-79 school term to be similar in structure and design to the previous two programs, he said.

The 1978-79 program is scheduled to begin on August 18. This date coincides with the first regular school day for all students in the Pass Christian School District.

Program activities will be conducted in the Pass Christian Elementary School. There will be 20 students and two certified teachers in the classroom. Daily activities will begin at 8:15 a.m. Monday through Friday and end each day at 3 p.m.

Only those students who reside on established bus routes and who are eligible for transportation under the State Department of Education Transportation Laws are eligible for transportation to the program. In addition, must make provisions for daily snacks and daily lunch, the superintendent explained.

All students who will be six years of age on or before October 1, 1979, and who reside within the boundaries of the Pass Christian Municipal Separate School District are eligible for participation in the program.

A list of 20 students will be drawn, by a random selection process, from the names of all persons making application for participation in the program. The 20 names thus selected will be the students who will be attending the kindergarten classes during the 1978-79 school term.

An impartial accounting firm is scheduled to conduct the drawing.

A two week special registration period will be conducted in August. All parents who are interested in the program and who have children eligible for participation must register their children at the superintendent's office, 701 West North Street, (in the Pass Christian Elementary School) beginning July 17-21, and July 24-28.

Registration hours will be from 8 a.m. to 3 p.m. each day.

Applications will only be accepted during the announced registration periods, Lizana said.

Echo editorial, sports pages cited by MPA

The Sea Coast Echo received two awards in its circulation division of the Mississippi Press Association's 1978 Better Newspaper Contest.

The Bay St. Louis newspaper took second place for excellence in the editorial page category and the sports page division for weekly papers with more than 4,000 circulation.

Concerning the Echo's winning editorial page entry which featured editorials by Publisher Ellis Cuevas and former managing editor Neville Jacob, contest judges from the Alabama Press Association said, "This page stands out."

"Sports are well identified and there is a good mixture of various games and activities," the judges noted on the Echo's winning sports page entry.

First place in those two categories went to the Picayune-Item of Picayune, which was also named the leading weekly paper in the state for general excellence.

Since the close of the contest period, the Picayune-Item has become a daily paper.

The Picayune-Item captured a total of 12 awards in the contest, including eight first place citations.

W. Harvey Hurt Jr. of the Wayne County News, Waynesboro, took the first annual J. Oliver Emmertich Editorial Excellence Award for an editorial on labor relations in that community.

This year's contest drew a total of 592 entries from 58 newspapers across the state.

The awards were presented Friday morning at an association awards breakfast at the Broadwater Beach Hotel in Biloxi.

Episcopal Day, High Schools name Shafer

Dr. Paul Shafer, former Pass Christian Municipal Separate School District principal, has been named headmaster of the Coast Episcopal High School in Pass Christian and the Christ Episcopal Day School in Bay St. Louis.

Shafer's new assignment was announced by the schools' board of trustees following the resignation of former Headmaster Paul G. Bode in June.

Shafer holds a AAAA educational administrator's certification from the Mississippi State Department of Education.

He brings to his new position a wealth of experience in business and education, having served on the elementary, high school, junior college and university levels.

He is married to the former Carrie Carroll. The couple has one son and two daughters, one of whom will be a senior at Coast Episcopal High this fall.

Holy Family alumni association honors Bay's Mother Rose Hazeur

Bay St. Louis native Mother Rose de Lima Hazeur was special guest of honor at this summer's homecoming festivities of the Congregation of The Sisters of The Holy Family in New Orleans.

Completing her second four-year term as Mother Superior of the Congregation, she was also cited for her role as founder of the Holy Family Alumni Association.

Mother Rose received plaques of appreciation for "dedicated and outstanding" service from alumni association chapters in New Orleans, Los Angeles and Opelousas, La., and a special gift from the 1962 class of Holy Rosary Institute.

Some 500 persons attended the event June 25 at the Grand Hotel, New Orleans.

Mother Rose is a graduate of the old St. Rose de Lima Elementary and High Schools in Bay St. Louis. She holds a degree from St. Theresa's College, Winona, Minn., an MA in administration from Catholic University of America, and has completed post graduate work at Loyola University of Los Angeles.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clement Hazeur of Bay St. Louis.

Prior to her election as superior general, she served as a teacher in Apalachicola, Fla.; Grand Coteau, Lafayette and Donaldsonville, La. She was principal of St. Francis Xavier School in Baton Rouge, La. for some 10 years and later principal of Regina Coeli High School, Compton, Calif.

MOTHER ROSE HAZEUR

Through her years as an educator, she has served as music teacher, choir director, glee club moderator, sodality moderator and student council advisor.

Mother Rose has held membership on the Sisters Vocation Council in Los Angeles; Advisory Board for Special Projects in Compton; visiting team of the Western Association of Schools and Colleges; and served as a delegate to the General Assembly of the Sisters of The Holy Family in 1964, 1968 and 1970.

She founded the alumni association in 1964, and upon assuming duties as superior general, named Sister Bertille Hazeur, her sister, as national alumni director.

Since becoming superior general, she has been a member of the Archbishop's Board of Regents in New Orleans and for the past four years has served on the executive board of the Louisiana Leadership Conference of Women Religious.

New Orleans Archbishop Phillip Hannan has cited Mother Rose for her work on the Horizon Program for the aged.

She holds certificates of merit from the mayors of Los Angeles, New Orleans and Opelousas, and is listed in Who's Who in Religion.

In addition, she is a member of the administrative council of the consortium Perfectae Caritatis.

During her current administration as superior general of the Congregation, the Lafon Nursing Home in New Orleans was built and the debt amortized. A new wing has since been added to the building.

She was instrumental in organizing a three-week congress of the Nationwide Congregation at the Motherhouse in New Orleans in 1976.

Among those attending the homecoming ceremonies in addition to her parents and Sister Bertille were Mother Rose's brother and sister-in-law, Dr. and Mrs. C. S. Hazeur, Jr. of Mobile, Ala.; and their daughter Camille; brother and sister-in-law Mr. and Mrs. Emile Hazeur of Bay St. Louis and their daughters Ellen, Marie and Yvette; and brother August Hazeur of Wilmington, Del., and his daughter Michelle.

The infant son of Clayton Eugene Thompson Jr. and Mrs. Mari Richardson Thompson, of Bay St. Louis, died at birth Wednesday. In addition to his parents, he is survived by his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Richardson and Mr. and Mrs. Clayton E. Thompson Sr., all of Bay St. Louis. Funeral arrangements are pending at Edmond Fahey Funeral Home in Bay St. Louis.

SHARON PETERSON
The funeral for Sharon E. Peterson, 33, was Friday at Riemann Funeral Home Chapel in Long Beach, with burial in the Long Beach City Cemetery.

Miss Peterson, a resident of 121 N. Burke Ave., Long Beach, was killed Wednesday, July 12, 1978, in a truck accident on U.S. 90 in Gulfport.

She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold N. Peterson of Vicksburg. Born in Quincy, Mass., she had resided in Long Beach for two months and was a Catholic.

In addition to her parents, she is survived by a brother, Harold Peterson II of Long Beach and a sister, Mrs. Sybil K. Lawrence of Pascagoula.

MRS. ALICE HANKINS

Mrs. Alice Zerr Hankins, 80, wife of Orion G. Hankins and a resident of 209 Klondyke Road, Long Beach, died Thursday, July 13, 1978. Her funeral was conducted Saturday at 11 a.m. at Edmond Fahey Funeral Home in Bay St. Louis.

Burial followed in the Metairie (La.) Cemetery. She was born in New Orleans. Other than her husband, she is survived by a son, Orion G. Hankins, Jr., of Jefferson, La.; a brother, Roy Zerr of New Orleans; a grandchild, and four great-grandchildren.

CLAUDE CUEVAS

Claude Edgar Cuevas, 69, a retired self-employed grocer, died Wednesday, July 12, 1978, at his home in Pass Christian. Mass was celebrated Friday in the Church of the Annunciation at Kiln, followed by burial in the Rotten Bayou Cemetery.

Mr. Cuevas is survived by his wife, Mrs. Laurine Myrtle Cuevas of Pass Christian; two daughters, Mrs. Martha Elizabeth Myers of Roseland, La., and Mrs. Cheryl Annette Smith of Pass Christian; a son, Milton Cyril Cuevas of LaPlace, La.; two brothers, Ralph Cuevas of Santa Anna, Calif., and Earl Cuevas of New Orleans; two sisters, Mrs. Jessie Kane of Pass Christian and Mrs. Vera Redden of Gulfport; and four grandchildren.

Surprise shower honors Susan Perrot in New Orleans

Miss Susan Perrot of New Orleans, bride-elect of Dominick Moane, was honored at a surprise miscellaneous show Sunday hosted by her bridesmaids, Misses Sandra Perrot, Tammy Bechtel and Cheryl Bechtel at the home of Mrs. Peggy Perrot.

A yellow and green color scheme was used in the decorations. The honoree was presented a corsage of yellow and green silk flowers.

Miss Perrot is the granddaughter of Mrs. Leonard Favre of Bay St. Louis and the late Leonard Favre.

Out of town guests were Mrs. Patsy Perrot of New Orleans, Mrs. Audrey Glover, Belle Chasse, La., Mrs. Shirley Lawless and Mrs. Jeanie Bradburn, Kenner, La.; Mrs. Vert Penton and Mrs. Ofa Penton, Picayune, Miss.; Mrs. Bobby Ellis, Mrs. Norman Costello and Mrs. Elsie Grant, Gulfport; Mrs. Mae Carver, Pass Christian.

Guests from Bay St. Louis included Mrs. Leonard Favre, Mrs. Lillian Moane, Mrs. Peggy Perrot and Miss Rosa Rosado.

along by aping the fashion of this age, appealing to its culture its taste and fashions. Preachers, who attempt to be comedians, are miserable flops. People who want to see and hear a comedian can turn their TV on and see a professional. God never called a Christian leader, be he a minister or whoever, to be a comedian or a clown. If he persists in being such, he will be recognized as a joke soon-enough.

Just remember: God never meant that His inspired revelation to men, which is, and will forever be, "foolishness to them that perish," should be revamped, streamlined nor paraphrased to make it acceptable to the natural men.

Men must square with the Gospel, to be saved, must understand that they are lost, repent of their sins and be born again. To cater to their pride and tickle their ears in order to make them favorably disposed to hear our message is to defeat the very purpose of the Gospel.

There is joy aplenty to be sure, but it is the heavenly joy of the Spirit of God and not the silly antics of human clowning under religious auspices.

The natural man receiveth not the things of the Spirit of God, for they are foolishness unto him; neither can he know them, because they are spiritually discerned. (1 Cor. 2:14)

The business of God is executed with calm deliberation, with great joy, confidence and assurance; but always in dead seriousness, because God's business is serious business! — L. S. Walker

Washington report

By Trent Lott

I used to think that an "aye-aye" was either Navy jargon for "yes sir" or a positive response to a voice vote in Congress. Not so.

An "aye-aye" actually is a nocturnal mammal, allied to a monkey, which has joined the snail darter and the Mississippi sandhill crane and 670 other creatures on an endangered species list protected by federal law.

When Congress approved the Endangered Species Act of 1973, who would have believed that the snail darter, a three-inch fish, would stop construction of a $116 million dam in Tennessee. Further, who would have believed that the U.S. Supreme Court would order a halt to a project that is 95 percent completed.

But the Supreme Court, using the Endangered Species Act, did just that earlier this month. If the opinion sticks and Congress fails to amend the act, some $100 million of hard-earned taxpayers' money will have been wasted, and the Tellico Dam in Tennessee will stand as nothing more than a conversation piece for incredulous tourists.

I think it's important to realize that the decision is not the fault of the nation's highest court. It's the fault of the Congress which passed the law and has allowed it to get out of hand.

In fact, the Supreme Court decision is a classic example of a well-intentioned law being taken so far out of context that it bears little resemblance to its original design. Now, more than ever, I think it's high time Congress acted to correct the deficiencies.

There is, of course, a need to protect some species — such as the bald eagle — from extinction. But environmental concerns must be balanced with the needs of human beings. Since the Endangered Species Act became law, there has been no such balance, and the results have been needless human discomfort and blatant wastes of money.

If there was one clear message in California's adoption of Proposition 13 and its accompanying repercussions across the country, it was that Americans are fed up with high taxes. To me, it also meant that the federal government must stop its wasteful spending practices.

There are real human needs in this country today, including the availability of adequate water supplies, control against flooding and quality transportation routes. To help Congress recognize these needs, I have proposed amendments to the Endangered Species Act.

One amendment would provide that chancery clerks be notified when acreage in their county is declared a critical habitat, so no unsuspecting person would buy land and later discover its uses were restricted.

Another would clearly designate which federal agency must pay for compliance with the act and a third would specify a time frame for projects to be contested, so situations like the Tellico Dam versus the snail darter can be avoided.

With these and some other changes, there's no reason why this act couldn't be properly administered to protect the truly endangered species.

WHEN BILL IS NO BILL

Q - I am very concerned over companies sending solicitation which look like invoices to me at my business hoping to receive payment for these bills that aren't due. What can be done to stop these companies which send unauthorized invoices and what precautions can I take?

A - These companies usually possess distinctive names and have addresses in such states as California, Florida, Ohio, and Massachusetts. They send invoices to firms ranging in size with the idea that the bookkeepers of these firms will pay the bills as supposedly owed.

These false invoices appear to be in correct order with all the proper identification such as the name and address of the firm, the date, the invoice number, the size of the ad, and the amount due.

They are almost always for the cost of advertising usually in some type of directory. The costs of these bills range from under $100 to $400.

The question often arises as to why a false invoice can't be stopped by the U.S. Postal Service.

The answer is that the invoice has a disclaimer on it stating that it is not a bill or invoice but a solicitation for goods or services.

For all practical purposes, this removes it from the U.S. Postal Service's jurisdiction. All firms including banks, must be very careful in screening all invoices. If you receive such an invoice, do not pay it and report it to the proper authorities.

Also remember to keep the envelope in which it was mailed. Your bookkeeping department should be carefully checked, and all employees should be informed as to what is going on.

If you do receive an invoice such as this, please notify the Consumer Protection Division in the Office of the Attorney General, P.O. Box 220, Jackson, Mississippi, 39205.

A DEAL FOR YOU!

Q - I am the owner of a small store, and I got a call from a man wanting to send me some surplus cleaning supplies at a cheap price. I sent some money, but later found out that I could buy them cheaper from a local distributor. Is this a frequent problem?

A - Many Mississippi businesses have been called recently by out-of-state office supply and equipment firms and offered merchandise, or copy machine toner supplies at phoney "discount" rates.

At least one of these solicitors gives the false impression that he is with the Government General Services Administration, others state or falsely imply that they are calling for a well-known manufacturer of office supplies. These solicitors invariably represent that a real "bargain" is available to a purchaser because of fortuitous circumstances.

Often, they misrepresent that another business which ordered merchandise has gone out of business and that as a result they have merchandise they must sell quickly.

MISSISSIPPI ECONOMIC COUNCIL

A Mississippi official spoke several days ago of a threat of a "taxpayers' revolution" under certain conditions involved in a lawsuit relative to property taxation.

He was referring, obviously, to recent actions in California in which voters placed a constitutional ceiling on the property tax dollars which they could be charged.

The California taxpayers' decision in that state's now famous "Proposition 13" vote is considered to be but the tip of an iceberg of citizen unrest and impatience with inflation-fueled tax bills which seem to be soaring higher and higher.

Mississippi taxpayers, like taxpayers across the country, are concerned about the growth of government, the use of tax dollars, and the apparent inability or unwillingness of legislators and other public officials to deal with these issues.

Perhaps the time has come for a "taxpayers' revolution" in Mississippi. But when it comes, chances are it won't come because of any court-ordered enforcement of a constitutional guarantee, as the public official warned. If a "taxpayers' revolution" comes to Mississippi, chances are it will come for one or more of the following reasons:

1. The rise in governmental expenditures — state and national — from 31 percent of personal income 20 years ago to 42 percent of personal income today.

2. The unfairness of present-day property tax procedures, through which some Mississippians carry the burden for other Mississippians.

3. The continuing poor management of 16th Section lands in Mississippi, a practice ignored by some public officials which increases the tax burden for many Mississippians because of favored treatment for a few.

4. Continuing growth of state government with only timid attempts being made to control such growth.

5. The continuing waste of tax dollars by county officials who operate five separate road districts rather than accept a more efficient unit system of road management.

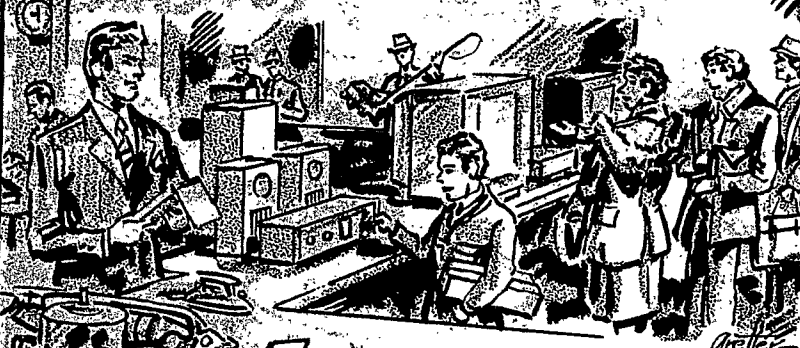

6. Inequitable distribution of tax dollars for highways, roads, and streets and for education with little effort being made to correct such inequities.

Come to think of it, maybe a good "taxpayers' revolution" is what we need in Mississippi, with taxpayers sounding a firm "no" to additional taxation until these tax-related problems — and a few more — are resolved.

Health tips

from American Medical Association

It isn't absolutely necessary for executives to have heart disease, ulcers and strokes — ailments commonly associated with American businessmen who reach the management level.

Further, these ailments are by no means limited to executives. They can affect almost any one.

A few suggestions offered by the American Medical Association to help executives preserve their health also can be readily applied to most Americans, regardless of level of employment.

— Watch your weight. Strenuous diets usually aren't necessary. Just eat less.

— Exercise. Golf is fine, if you enjoy it. But if you're one of the many who lose their tempers and get upset over every missed stroke, brisk walks will serve just as well as golf, maybe better.

— Take vacations. Real vacations, not just an occasional day or two. And plan your vacation so that there is time to relax and unwind.

— Smoke less. Better still, quit smoking altogether. There is no doubt that tobacco is bad for you.

— Cut down on drinking. Two cocktails before dinner is maybe one too many. One might be too many for some people.

— Get plenty of sleep. And try to sleep without the use of drugs, if at all possible.

— Put business worries out of your mind when you leave the office. This sometimes is easier said than done. Perhaps you need to get active in something else, such as the affairs of your church or neighborhood center, to get your mind off your job.

for a rate of 4.3 percent.

George County held the highest May, 1978, unemployment rate of 9.4 percent in this part of the state with only 480 persons out of work, however.

In addition, the Port and Harbor commissioners Thursday night heard a report from a Port Blenville property owner that he will begin construction on a new industry there within six months.

Jerry Gillen of Delta Concrete Piling, River Ridge, La., told the commission his business has expanded from a $3 million operation to more than $12 million in the past two years.

Gillen said he is certain to secure the major portion of a $15 million piling project on the New Orleans Westbank Elevated Expressway.

The Louisiana industrialist said the unexpected growth of his company has been one of the principal factors preventing a move to Port Blenville since he purchased ten acres at the park two years ago.

Gillen said he will near completion of a $3 million piling contract with Marathon Oil Refinery at Garyville, La., in August, at which time he plans to begin transfer of personnel to Port Blenville to begin plant construction there.

The commission extended the deadline to exercise an option on additional acreage held by Delta Concrete from July 15 to Jan. 15, 1979, based on the promise from Gillen he will begin construction on his original ten acres within that time.

Property purchase terms at Port Blenville require a landowner to begin plant construction within a specified time to prevent tie up of the property by speculators, Webre explained.

Gillen explained the piling he will manufacture for the Westbank Expressway will be too large to be moved by truck, thus necessitating he have a plant on a waterfront site such as the one he owns at Port Blenville.

"That puts a great deal of daylight on this situation," Webre stated. Gillen appeared at the request of the commission which had threatened to exercise its right to repurchase the Delta property at Port Blenville due to the lack of activity.

Thursday's agreement between the commission and Gillen gives him an additional six months to meet his covenant obligations to establish a plant here.

Webre said he is not yet at liberty to disclose the name of a company which is exploring the possibility of operating a diesel fuel terminal at Port Blenville. The proposed operation would be comprised of receiving the fuel on barges, pumping it into above ground holding tanks, and shipping it out on tank trucks.

The company would require from five to ten acres at the port, Webre said, to construct a storage tank capable of holding some 1.5 million gallons of fuel.

The commission also heard a progress report from Bert Walker of Long Beach on his plans to construct a $500,000 ice manufacturing plant at Bayou Cadet.

Walker said he is currently seeking a feasibility report from the Mississippi Research and Development Center in Jackson prior to applying for a Farmers Home Administration loan to build the plant.

He is seeking a 20 year lease from the commission on a plot at Bayou Cadet Marina some 90 feet wide between the entrance road and the dock at the front end of the Marina.

Webre told the commission the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers is seeking assurances from the commission that a minimum of five acres, 9,000 feet southwest of Bayou Cadet Marina on Point Clear Island will be available as a maintenance dredging spoils disposal area before final approval can be given to a new basin development at the Marina.

The Corps will perform maintenance dredging every six years in the new basin, as it now does in the bayou and its approaches in the Mississippi Sound.

The Corps feels the suggested acreage between the Louisville and Nashville Railroad tracks and Beckendorf property will afford the least ecological disruption in the area if used for spoils disposal, Webre said.

Commission President J. D. McCulloch named Commissioners Dave DeBlanc and Dave McDonald to serve with him on a committee to develop the commission's 1978-1979 budget.

McCulloch then requested the commission retire into executive session to discuss "personnel" problems.

Commissioner John Bordages' motion for an executive session was seconded by Commissioner Fred Curet and approved by the other members, at which time the officials retreated behind closed doors to continue with the remainder of the evening's public business.

I hear that Real cigarettes aren't doing too well and wonder why. The ads seem to be very effective. Looking For A New Low Tar.

Dear EFANLT: Reynolds spent some $40-million on the second half introduction of the new cigarettes, and "like" you, "is disappointed with the results."

But there are a number of reasons for the apparent low sales production.

One is the introduction of some 22 new low tar cigarettes during 1977.

Also attributed was the general shift to the new low tar cigarettes which now make up some 25 percent of the market, and some of the earlier brands still dominate the sales.

But there were other disappointments during the year also, according to Advertising Age. They included:

CB radios — too many brands, not enough customers.

A and P Price and Pride — the comedy team didn't sell.

Pyramid Power — too weak for the market place.

Heinz Condensed Soup — decided Campbell was too damn-n-good.

But the year was not a loss for the marketers, however. Most phenomenal sales were at Elvis Presley records and other memorabilia.

his death.

"Star Wars," a relatively low budget movie featuring an old western plot in the future with androids and space ships, also produced a sales bonanza.

Ford's "Fiesta," the new mini-car, exceeded sales expectations at the expense of other imports. Only 9 percent of purchasers said they would have bought another Ford product.

Visa, the charge card, challenged the market and gained international status and recognition through an intensive campaign.

There are thousands of other success stories, as well as failures. But such is the way of marketing.

But all the success stories are built around the effective use of advertising. Continued with an acceptable product.

Most failures were well promoted, also, and most can be attributed to the marketers' assessment of the market, or the product itself.

State cattle industry offers shopping tips

BUYER'S GUIDE

Is there anything shoppers can do to stretch their food dollars during times of higher prices?

The Mississippi Cattle Industry Board says there is. And to help shoppers do just that, they have available a unique tool called the "Beef Buyers Guide," according to Tina Robertson, executive director of the MCIB.

"It's a price-per-pound cost-per-serving converter. That means it enables a shopper to calculate quickly the cost per edible portion for several different beef cuts. Often, the results can be surprising," she said.

The guide contains many other budget-stretching features, such as instructions on each of the six beef cookery methods, and beef identification, she added.

The "Beef Buyers Guide" is pocket-sized, so it can be used right in the food store or at home for planning weekly menus.

"This is just another way the beef producers in the state want to help the consumer shop more wisely and economically," said Ms. Robertson.

For a copy of "Beef Buyer's Guide," send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to: MCIB, Rt. 2, Box 200, Pelahatchie, Miss. 39145.

Mississippi College alums

seek area awards nominees

Mississippi College alumni in the Bay St. Louis area are invited to submit names of nominees for "Alumnus of the Year" and other awards given out each year by the Alumni Association.

According to Bernard Blackwell, director of alumni affairs, local area alumni are invited to make nominations in writing to the honors and awards committee of the association for their consideration the latter part of this month.

In addition to "Alumnus of the Year," nominations will also be accepted for the Order of the Golden Arrow award and individuals to be recognized for Distinguished Service to the College.

In order to be eligible for the "Alumnus of the Year" honor, the graduate must have been out of college at least 15 years and "have worked with marked intelligence and success to promote the highest interests of Mississippi College and their home communities."

The Order of the Golden Arrow award can go to an alumnus or friend of the College who has made outstanding personal or professional achievement in their professions, business or career. The DSA recognition is reserved for those alumni or friends who have made significant contribution in time, effort, or personal resources to the advancement of Mississippi College for the 12 months preceding Homecoming.

All nominations should be mailed to George Dale, President, Alumni Association, Mississippi College, P.O. Box 4027, Clinton, MS 39058.

USDA announces lunch rebate of $1.5 million in Mississippi

The U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) will make cash payments totaling $1,438,559 to schools in Mississippi to make up for a shortfall in food donations for school lunches.

The funds are part of a national payment of $47,026,743 announced by the assistant secretary of agriculture for food and consumer services.

The cash payments are to be used only to purchase foods that are produced in the United States and that meet specification of the school lunch and breakfast programs.

Ms. Carol Foreman, USDA assistant secretary, said, "The National School Lunch Act provides that states are to be given a specified value of donated foods for each lunch served their schools."

"If they are not provided all the foods programmed in their states, they are given cash payments to make up the difference," she added.

"For the 1978 school year (ending June 30) the value of donated foods was programmed at 12.75 cents per lunch. As of May 15, the foods actually donated and scheduled to be donated amount to approximately 11.05 cents a lunch," Ms. Foreman said.

"Therefore, the Department is making cash payments of approximately 1.70 cents a lunch for the 4.2 billion lunches being served this year. The per lunch amount will vary from state to state," she noted.

The notice announcing that the cash payments will be made appeared in the Federal Register of June 20.

FmHA-financed homes affected by new rules

New insulation standards for housing in rural areas financed by the Farmers Home Administration will be put into effect, Robert W. Smith, FmHA County Supervisor announced today.

Implementation of the standards, first scheduled on March 15, had been held up during federal court consideration of a suit by the National Association of Home Builders challenging the new code.

After FmHA prepared additional environmental material and a further hearing on the case was held, a U.S. District Judge dissolved a preliminary injunction. While certain aspects of the lawsuit remain to be resolved, the new insulation standards can now be implemented.

The new thermal standards are designed to provide for heavier insulation and other measures to make FmHA-financed housing less costly to heat or cool, and to conserve energy.

They will apply to newly-built homes and apartments financed by FmHA, and, insofar as is economically feasible, to existing housing purchased or repaired with FmHA loans.

Better weatherizing through more effective insulation, storm doors and windows and other techniques will help families to reduce high fuel and energy expenses that jeopardize their ability to afford adequate housing.

Details of the standards, which vary by climatic zones, are available from Farmers Home Administration County Office, No. 3 Colonial Plaza, Highway 90, Bay St. Louis, 39520.

Housing loans administered by FmHA, a U.S. Department of Agriculture agency, serve all rural areas including towns of up to 10,000, and designated towns of 10,000 to 20,000 that are not in Standard Metropolitan Statistical (SMSA) Areas and have a shortage of mortgage credit for families of low and moderate income. FmHA will finance approximately 30 homes in Hancock County during fiscal year 1978.

Glen Campbell joins Fiedler on METV

Glen Campbell joins Arthur Fiedler and the Boston Pops Orchestra for an "Evening at Pops" at 7 p.m., Sunday, July 23, on the Mississippi ETV Network.

Campbell performs songs by his friend, songwriter Jimmy Webb: "Asleep on the Wind," "Highwayman," "Pocketful of Keys" and "MacArthur Park."

A guitarist and singer since he was four years old, Campbell has won international acclaim with three gold singles and 11 gold albums to his credit.

For "Evening at Pops" he performs one of his biggest hits, "Rhinstone Cowboy." Campbell grew up near Delight, Ark., population 300, in a family of 12 children. At age four, he was given a $5 Sears and Roebuck guitar - which launched his musical experience and career.

He has starred in "True Grit," "Norwood" and the TV movie "Strange Homecoming." He hosted his own television series, "The Glen Campbell Show," for four and a half years and is a frequent guest on television.

READ LABELS

A great deal of time, money and research goes into developing label information for pesticides. However, pesticide users must follow this information to make it really useful. Most pesticides are toxic to some extent. The information on the label will tell you how toxic the chemical is and explain how to use it safely.

Clear water and Indians everywhere

Thigpen tells how it was 100 years ago, asks how it will be 100 years from now

By S. GRADY THIGPEN
COUNTY HISTORIAN

If you had lived where Picaune now is between 1812 and 1836, your courthouse and county seat would have been at old Center, about one half mile east of where Caesar Church now stands.

If you had lived in Bay St. Louis, Pearlinton, Byrd's Chapel, Derby, Savannah, Kiln, Steep Hollow, you would have gone to Center to pay taxes, get marriage licenses and go to court, etc.

Center, the county seat of Hancock County, was located on a beautiful sloping hammock by which runs clear sparkling Catahoula Creek on the east side and Playground branch, an ever-running little stream of cool, clear water, on the west side. Old homes and old time communities were usually built where water was plentiful.

No better spot could have been found for the county seat from the standpoint of water or the land itself. The land there is a rich sandy loam underlaid with red clay gently sloping toward the two streams, with perfect drainage.

Besides water and drainage, there were other reasons why Center was selected as the county seat of newly formed Hancock County. For one thing, it was almost in the geographic center of the county. Another reason was that it was the main Indian community and center of population of this entire area and had been for probably hundreds of years.

The big chief of the Choctaws in this area made his headquarters there. All roads, maybe I should say all trails, led to this community. It was there that the Indians held their pow-wows, their games and meetings of other kinds. It was there that the Indian ball games took place, pretty much as we know have basket ball tournaments here in Picaune.

The original name for this community was an Indian name meaning "Center" or "coming together" or "where everybody meets up." When the white people came in they used the corresponding English name and called it Center. It seems to have been by far the biggest Indian settlement in this whole section of the country.

Miss Elsie Barr, in her most interesting story of the old place where R. H. Crosby family now lives, stated that when the old Indian chief who lived there sold that property, he with the other Indians of his tribe went to Center to live.

The big Indian town was located further up the slope from where the Hancock County Courthouse was built and was centered somewhat north of the present road between Catahoula Creek and Playground Branch. There is much evidence to show that Indians lived there.

Members of the Bilbo family who now own this property have told me of finding arrow heads, flints and other things when they plowed and worked the land. Mr. George Bilbo told me recently that they had plowed up many skeletons and bones, skulls, etc. on new ground and it seems that the Indians buried their dead in shallow graves. When plowing deep on this land these things were brought to the surface.

Mr. A. J. Bilbo, who owned this old place for many years and who died about 1940, gave me much information about old Center. "He went with me down the slope from his home to where old Center stood. He showed me the location of the old dungeon, or jail, where there is still a slight depression in the ground. He showed me where houses had stood as was evidenced by old deposits from the chimneys. When I was there grown trees had covered the old town site, but it was very evident a village had once been there."

Mr. Freeman Lee, who died in his nineties about 1940, gave me considerable information about old Center. He remembered seeing soldiers drill there in preparation for going either to the Mexican or Civil war - he did not remember which.

He remembered practically all trails leading to Center and there were no such things as roads as we have now, some trails wide enough for a wagon to travel over. He told me that as a young man he rode a horse or walked from the old Lee Homestead in present Leetown to Walkiah Bluff to attend parties or social gatherings.

He would cross Cathoula Creek and hit the old trail from Center to Walkiah. He remembered well the old Jackson Military road cut through the heavy pine timber and of passing through Picaune when there was only one house on this old trail in what is now the corporate limits of the city.

One time he went to a home of a Mr. Stockstill. Big rains came and the streams got up so that he was about two weeks getting back home. There were no bridges back then. He told me of a man going from somewhere up on Pearl River to Center to get his marriage license to be married the next Sunday. The creaks got up and he was gone for about three weeks.

His folks and the girl's folks wondered what in the world had become of him, some of them speculating that maybe he had fled the country. But when the water went down he showed up and the marriage took place. He called names, which I will not do, as the descendants of this couple live out that way now.

Rev. L. G. Varnado, wrote me this right lately: "My grandfather Jones was sent here as a peace officer when this area was incorporated as Mississippi Territory in 1812. He was born in the Alleghany Mountains in Georgia and was used to a rough jungle life as well as the nature and characteristics of Indians."

"He was a full blooded red Irishman, his father coming direct from the old country. He married a bride who was born in Sweden. They had three children when the government sent him here. He settled in the midst of the Choctaw Village and sea of government which stood east and just across the branch from Caesar."

Eye injuries likely is label warning

Because of a possible danger of eye injury, Janitor In A Drum and non-aerosol "Spray 'n Wash," two popular household cleaners made by the Texize Chemicals Co., Greenville, SC, must soon display warning labels advising consumers to avoid getting the products in their eyes.

The warning "INJURIOUS TO EYES" will be printed on the main label of all containers of the liquid cleaner "Janitor In A Drum" introduced into interstate commerce beginning July 17, 1978.

Non-aerosol containers of the laundry soil and stain remover "Spray 'n Wash" must be labeled "EYE IRRITANT" starting November 15, 1978.

Also to appear on both products' labels will be first-aid instructions so consumers will know what to do should the cleaners get in their eyes.

Both products will caution: "Avoid contact with eyes." "Janitor In A Drum" will carry first-aid treatment instruction: "In case of eye contact, flush with water for 15 minutes and get medical attention." "Spray 'n Wash" will carry first-aid treatment instruction: "In case of eye contact, flush with water for 15 minutes. If irritation persists, seek medical attention."

The added warnings are a result of a recent consent order signed by Judge Henry S. Wise for the U.S. District Court for the Eastern District of Illinois, in Danville. The court permanently enjoined Morton-Norwich Products, Chicago, Ill., from channeling the cleaners in interstate commerce without the warning labels required by law. To date, neither of the products made by Texize, a division of Morton-Norwich, has displayed the required warnings.

The Federal Government's complaint against Morton-Norwich was filed on behalf of the Commission because the two products caused eye damage or irritation in laboratory rabbits used to test compliance of consumer products with the Federal Hazardous Substances Act. The act requires products causing eye irritation or damage to be labeled accordingly, along with first-aid instructions to tell consumers how to avoid possible harm.

Mr. Jones has many descendants now in the Caesar area. He lived after the Indians were gone for many years at this old place. Center was a village with a post-office, log courthouse, a jail, an inn or hotel, a barroom, one or more small stores and a few homes for county officers and others.

Henry Necaie, an old negro who died about 50 years ago at 110-years old told me of going to Center as a boy to a murder trial in which some of his folks were involved. Some man was called as a witness. The judge told him to be seated in the witness chair but the man continued standing. He was again told to take the witness chair, when he said, "Judge, I rode a mule 30 miles to get here and I am so sore I can't sit down." The judge and everybody laughed and the man was allowed to continue standing.

Murrel, one of the most notorious robbers ever to operate in this section, with a wide reputation as a hold-up man and killer, was once arrested and put in this old dungeon but before he could be tried, confederates came in and rescued him from the jail, or he bribed someone to let him out. Anyway, he got out and was never tried.

Mr. George Bilbo and Mrs. Caz Stockstill have both told me of stories their grandmother used to tell them in the long ago about old Center. As a child she went to the old Indian dances which were always held under the same old big tree. Fires for light would be built in a circle around this old tree and the Indians would start early in the night with their dance which always ended at sun up. They danced and sang all night.

I myself, as a child, used to go to the Choctaw dances up in Jasper County where there would always be a big crowd, not only of Indians but of white people. Mr. Bilbo and Mrs. Stockstill also told me that their grandmother would tell of the many Indian teepees, wigwams, or whatever you call them that were located between Playground Branch and Catahoula Creek, saying there must have been anywhere from 50 to 100 of them, all inhabited by Indians. Jackson's army camped at this location on its way from Alabama to New Orleans in the fall of 1814. This was an ideal camp site as the land is dry natured, lies well and there is plenty water available.

The first county officers at Center were William Hung, Clerk of the Superior and County court; Duncal McCall, Sheriff; and later Elihu Carver, sheriff; Thomas Hunt, assessor and collector; Roger A. Heron, justice of the peace; Joseph Villis, justice of the Quorum (I think this is the same as the Board of Supervisors now); William A. Walker, clerk of the Superior Court of Law and Equity.

In 1836 the courthouse was moved to Gainesville. Center died when the courthouse was moved. The Indians left about the same time.

This has been a story of this section right here where we live just a short time ago. What will we have here 200 years from now?

On the Road to the Top

Ethel May Crocker is not a woman to stand pat on success. There are always higher rungs on life's ladder, and each step up is only the preliminary for the next one.

That's why this Wichita, Kansas woman, already a Branch Sales Manager after only 3 1/2 years selling the products of Stanley Home Products, Inc. of Westfield, Mass., says determinedly of her goals: "I want to go to the top."

She is creative, takes great initiative in her career, listens carefully to others' suggestions and incorporates their ideas in her own activities.

"I set a goal and work toward it," Ms. Crocker says of her success. She had owned a beauty shop before becoming a Stanley dealer. Her mother, who had been a dealer for nearly 23 years at the time, was in a recruiting contest and Ethel May was her first recruit as a dealer.

It was a new beginning for her, but a spectacular one. She has enlarged and remodeled her home with Stanley earnings, and has invested in cattle and farm equipment. She has brought up two teen-age sons, and has traveled throughout the United States.

She likes her business, particularly helping people, and she likes the fact that there are no limits on what she can make of her career. And it leaves her time for her hobbies which include music, camping and boating. "I've earned money and made lots of friends," she says of her experience selling "Stanley" products, "but most of all I've gained a great sense of pride and accomplishment."

There seems no doubt that Ethel May Crocker is headed for the top.

Corps offers wetlands plantlife guidebook

To many, a "Nymphaea odorata" might suggest a "fragrant young female" but to those knowledgeable of wetland plantlife it's a lovely white waterlily in the fresh marshes of Mississippi and Louisiana.

This species and about a hundred others are pictured in a book just prepared by the US Army Corps of Engineers to assist in making wetland determinations. It is being made available free of charge to individuals planning dredge or fill operations in areas which could require a Section 404 permit in accordance with the Federal Water Pollution Control Act of 1972.

By means of color photographs, the booklet, compiled by Dr. Glen N. Montz of the Corps' New Orleans District, helps identify plants by common and scientific name and habitat.

Such species as the Ludwigia peploides or floating waterprimrose, Spartina alterniflora or oystercrass, Setaria magna or giant foxtail, and Vallisneria spiralis or wild celery are pictured in their natural settings.

These species and the others pictured are wetland indicators because they are typically adapted for life in water-saturated soil conditions.

Single copies of the booklet will be sent to those stating a need in writing addressed to the US Army Corps of Engineers, New Orleans District, ATTN: LMNOD-SA, PO Box 60267, New Orleans, LA 70160.

INVITATION TO BID

Sealed proposals for renovation work to Hancock North Central School will be received by the Hancock County School Board. Bids will be received in the office of the Superintendent, 128 Court St., Bay St. Louis, Mississippi, until 10:00 a.m., Monday, July 24, 1978. Any bid received after the closing time will be returned unopened.

Duly qualified General Contractors may secure from the office of John Mykolyk & Associates, Architects & Associated Engineers, 115 East Beach, Pass Christian, complete sets of Contract Documents upon deposit of $30.00 (Thirty Dollars) for each set obtained.

The full deposit will be refunded on the first set of Documents to General Contractors who submit a bid.

Each proposal must be accompanied by a certified check or bid bond, certified or issued by a Bank or Bonding Company in the State of Mississippi in an amount equal to at least 5 percent (5 percent) of the amount of the bid, and made payable without condition, to the Board, as a guarantee that the bidder, if awarded the Contract will promptly execute the Contract Documents. A 100 percent (100 percent) performance bond shall be required.

Contractors proposing to perform work amounting to $25,000.00 or more must hold current valid Contractor's Certificate of Responsibility and Contractor's License. Certificate number and license number must be indicated on the exterior of the sealed bid envelope before it can be opened.

The School Board reserves the right to reject any and all bids and to waive any informalities incident thereto.

Bid documents are on file in the Superintendent's office for public review.

Gilmer named PIO at State

William Gerald (Gerry) Gilmer, 33, assistant director of university public information and university advancement at Mississippi State University, will assume his duties as MSU James D. McComas.

He replaces Bob V. Moulder, who resigned in March to become director of public information for Mississippi Blue Cross-Blue Shield.

"I'm looking forward to the challenge of working with a growing and progressive university," Gilmer said. "I have been extremely impressed with the faculty and staff at MSU and can see nothing but a positive working relationship in the future."

Gilmer said he, his wife Cyndi and five-year-old daughter Natalie will be moving to Starkville "as soon as possible."

A graduate of Gulf Coast Community College, he received a bachelor's degree in advertising and public relations from Florida State University and a master's in educational administration and supervision from Auburn. He is presently completing requirements for a doctorate in administration of higher education from Auburn.

Prior to assuming his present duties, Gilmer was assistant to the director of field services at Auburn.

Previous to that, he was director of information services at Manatee Junior College in Bradenton, Fla., Gulf Coast Community College in Panama City, Fla., and Albany Junior College in Albany, Ga.

He also has experience as a newspaper reporter, radio broadcaster and journalism teacher.

Among Gilmer's professional organizations are Phi Delta Kappa, American Colleges Public Relations Association and National Council for College Publications Advisers.

He has been active in the March of Dimes and the Lions Club.

Developers of the STEP Program are the Center's Dr. Don Dinkmeyer and Gary D. McKay.

Goal of the program is to help parents towards realization of what they want most: "To raise responsible children, to help them grow into responsible adults and be capable of helping their children lead full, rewarding, and happy lives," the developers report.

STEP is a realistic and sensible approach to parent-child relationships. It offers practical alternatives to meeting the challenges of raising children today.

The STEP Program is not designed to imply parenting inadequacy. It does, however, suggest a desire to grow and learn new ways of communicating with and raising children.

"Most of us, as adults, reflect back on the good old days and see a time when our parents word was law, and childhood and child rearing were both met with much less turbulence," Dinkmeyer continued.

"Times have changed, as have the relationships between children and adults, parents, and child," he explained.

The basic objective of the STEP Program, according to Dinkmeyer and McKay, are clear, well defined, and concise.

"They include helping parents to understand the practical theory of human behavior, establishing democratic relationships with children, improving communication, and helping the parents develop self-awareness in coping and dealing with each other and particularly their children," they said.

The STEP Program usually takes nine weekly sessions to complete. Time and day for the group meetings are both flexible and vary with each new group.

Three groups are now being conducted by Gulf Coast

Environmental education camp offered by USM

A summer science camp for teachers and students in environmental education is scheduled at the University of Southern Mississippi from July 31-August 4.

USM's Department of Science Education and the Mississippi State Department of Education will conduct the five-day camp for secondary teachers and high school students at Paul B. Johnson State Park.

Camp director Lawrence Bellipanni of the USM science education faculty said two field trips will be taken as part of the camp. One of the trips is to the Marine Education Center in Biloxi and the other at the camp site, which will include a nature hike and collection of fresh water flora and fauna.

In addition to the five-day camp, three meetings are scheduled to be conducted during the school year.

The purpose of these meetings will be to summarize the camp's activities, to discuss progress toward the completion of individual science projects and additional information concerning environmental education.

Bellipanni said teachers may receive three semester hours of graduate credit upon completion of the camp and students are eligible for one unit of high school science credit.

Additional camp information is available from the USM Department of Conferences and Workshops, Southern Station Box 5136, Hattiesburg, 39401.

USM slates business ed workshop

The University of Southern Mississippi is sponsoring a workshop for Business Education Teachers from July 31-Aug. 4.

Registration for the week-long course on Century 21 shorthand will take place July 31 at 8 a.m. in the USM Business Administration Building, room 303. Dr. Donna Conerly will direct the course. Conerly called the Century 21 method "Effective and Easy to learn." Some of the topics to be covered are computer-controlled learning materials, new methods in teaching shorthand and the multimedia approach to learning and teaching shorthand.

The course can be used toward certificate renewal. Doris Youngman, Century 21 representative with Southwestern Publishing Co., will be the course consultant.

Interested persons may contact Dr. Conerly at USM Southern Station, Box 5244, Hattiesburg, 39401 or 266-7261.

Dan Bartlett, Border Patrol officer, was speaker at a July 12 meeting of the Harrison Hancock Counties Legal Secretaries Association, at the Western Gulfport Inn.

Marilyn Knight will serve as delegate to the convention of the National Association of Legal Secretaries in Atlanta on July 21-27. Several other members from the local association will attend.

Patsy Bishop presented a legal education program on a recent decision of the Supreme Court.

Bulldogs sign Florida's top junior college cager

Possibly Florida's top junior college forward, 6-6 Clint Smith of Okaloosa-Walton Junior College in Ft. Walton Beach has become Mississippi State's fourth 79 basketball signee.

The 210-pound youngster, who will be a sophomore at MSU next winter, scored 21 points per game and gathered in 15 rebounds per tilt last year at OWJC.

He also led the Florida jucu circuit in shooting percentage with 64 percent accuracy from the field while his 21 ppg scoring mean ranked in the top 10 in the state.

Smith, who was second statewide in rebounds per game, enjoyed his top junior college night with 36 points and 18 rebounds against perennially-strong Columbia (Tenn.) State Community College during the 1977-78 campaign.

Graduation from Nelson County (Va.) High School, the resident of Arlington, Va., was All-State, All-Region, and All-Metro DC District in 1976-77.

Having three years of eligibility remaining at State, Smith scored 22.0 points per game and averaged 14 caroms per contest at Nelson County and was the leading rebounder in the annual Virginia East-West High School Classic of 1977.

His signing offers relief for the Bulldog coaching at the strong forward's position which had been depleted somewhat by 1978 graduations.

"Clint will give us immediate help at the forward's spot where all three of our incoming signees will play," said Head Coach Jim Hatfield in reference to Smith, 6-7 Ricky Hood of Montgomery, Ala., and 6-4 Gary Gaspard of Los Angeles, Calif.

"The graduation of Rick Moss and Walter Wright left us with two openings at forward," Hatfield added, "and we will have some very fine additions in these three young players to our front line of John Adams (6-8), Rickey Brown (6-10) and Wiley Peck (6-8)."

"Clint is an extremely steady player who is also an excellent rebounder," noted MSU assistant coach Ray Ross, who signed the jucu product. "He takes the good percentage shots and plays a very controlled brand of basketball."

"Clint's very good player," added Ross, "but his attitude toward basketball would alone be a great help to our program." There's no doubt that had he opted to play his sophomore year at Okaloosa-Walton, he would have been rated as the No. 1 junior college prospect in Florida.

GSC LOSES TWO

The Gulf South Conference, which includes Mississippi College and Delta State, has accepted withdrawal requests from its only two members in Louisiana: Southeastern Louisiana of Hammond and Nicholls State of Thibodaux, effective next June 30. The two schools were charter members when the league was formed in 1972.

Pack football team to a 36-2 victory over the Northeastern Stars of Scranton, Pa., Saturday. He threw for 219 yards and two touchdowns, connecting 17 out of 33 times.

ZONE ONE SQUIRREL SEASON

In a news item sent to all Mississippi weekly and daily newspapers, June 7, the squirrel season for Zone 1 counties was listed to end December 24, 1978. Another release several weeks later stated that "Zone-1" squirrel hunting would end December 14. The confusion has been settled by Game and Fish Commission editor David Watts, who explained that squirrel hunting in Zone 1 will open September 30 and continue through December 24. Zone includes Warren, Yazoo, Madison, Attala, Montgomery, Grenada, Calhoun, Pontotoc, Union, Prentiss, and Tishomingo counties.

GILLIAM INDICTED

A Davidson County (Tennessee) grand jury returned an indictment against former Pittsburgh Steeler quarterback Joe Gilliam charging him with possession of heroin when he was searched by police in December, 1978. Last week, Gilliam received a 45-day suspended sentence for possession of marijuana and was placed on probation. Meanwhile, the former Tennessee State standout led the semi-pro Pittsburgh Wolf
